GEN.

RESIDENCE OF MISS CARL BRAKE, SITH AND FARRINGTON STREETS.

MISS CARL BRAKE'S

Roomy New Residence on South Sixth is Nearly Finished.

South Sixth street has been improved during the year by new houses and the addition to St. Anthony's hospital. One of the principal new houses on the street is being finished by Raymond H. Kintz, the contractor. Miss Carl Brake's new residence on the lot at the corner of Sixth and Farrington streets is thoroughly modern in every way. It has ten rooms, six on the first floor and four large bed rooms on the second floor. It is a frame house, painted a cream yellow and trimmed in green. Lee Jackson & Sons were the painters. Throughout the house there are many roomy closets and on the second floor a handsome bath room. The lower floor is finished in oak and the upper in hard pine. The house is lighted by either gas or electricity and is heated with furnace heat. All of the floor are pine for carpets except in the bath room where hard wood has been used. In the house there are four handsome mantels, three of quarter-sawed oak and the fourth of mahogany. The latter is in the parlor and the dining room contains one of the oak mantels. The other mantels are in the bed rooms in the second floor.

VIGO COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY
TERRE HAUTE, INDIANA

A. C. BRYCE & CO.

SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS HERE

John J. Brake Has Seen Terre Haute Grow From a Small Village.

He Was Seventy-Two Years Old on Monday and He Tells Some Reminiscenses.

He Went to New Orleans Twice on a Flat Boat as a Bow Hand.

LAST Monday was the 72nd birthday of John J. Brake, one of the old residents of Terre Haute, who has spent 68 years of his life here in this county, coming here at the age of four years. Mr. Brake was born in Owen county, Indiana, on a farm March 5, 1842. His father was Leonard Brake and his mother was Mary Jackson. His mother was a second cousin to "Stonewall" Jackson and Mr. Brake himself is a half-second cousin on his father's side also to "Stonewall" Jackson, Mr. Brake's mother was born in West Virginia and his father on the Potomac. They emigrated west and went to farming in Owen county. They moved to this county in 1826, and went to farming in the woods north of the city. They lived in Harrison township all their life since coming here.

Mr. Brake never had any home only on a farm and there has never been an election since he cast a vote that he has not had a voting residence in Harrison township. Mr. Brake's father died in 1875 and his mother in 1880, each in their 83rd year. At the time Mr. Brake's parents came here, when he was but four years old, this town had only been laid out a few years and the whole town centered about First and Ohio. streets. The first postoffice Mr. Brake recollects was at the northeast corner of Third and Mulberry streets in the north end of the old frame building that was torn down several years ago by Charley Tyler. Frank Cunningham was the postmaster.

"I remember seeing a few Indians hereabouts when I was a boy," said Mr. Brake to a GAZETTE writer yesterday. "One Indian in particular was a great, strapping fellow." As a boy Mr. Brake went to the country school north of town. Ezra Jones was the school teacher at Markle's mill. He was a half brother of J. O. Jones. William Woolen was the teacher at a school on the east end of what is now the poor farm. Billy Mars was the first Town Marshal Mr. Brake has recollection of.

As a boy Mr. Brake well remembers the old two story brick court house in the center of the court house square, where the present court house stands. "The Chadwick house on the south side of Ohio street, between Third and Fourth," said Mr. Brake, "was formerly part of a dwelling that stood back in the yard at Third and Main where C. C. Smith's stove store is. It was moved where it now is from that location. Another part of the house was moved up in the vicinity of the Filbeck House somewhere."

Continued Mr. Brake: "The most exciting political campaign I ever knew in this county was in 1840 between the Whigs and Democrats when Harrison and Van Buren ran for President. There was not so much bitterness as in 1864, but the campaign was the hottest I ever knew. In the early days there was a good deal of steamboating done on the Wabash from Terre Haute. There were no railroads then and that was practically the only means of finding an outlet for produce. There were lots of steamboats and flatboats that went out of here. I made two trips from here to

UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

Athletic Club of Coates College Gives an Exhibition.

The Gymnasium Crowded to See it—Skill and Grace Witnessed.

The Athletic club of Coates College gave a very unique entertainment last night at the gymnasium. The participants did not appear in person but performed back of a curtain, the lights in the audience section being turned low and very high at the rear of the curtain. The events were thrown upon the canvas as silhouettes making a striking effect.

No names were announced and unless one was very familiar with the faces it was impossible to distinguish them. The faces and heads all had very classic appearances and the mystifying effect made it all the more fascinating.

The last number not on the program was a pretty pantomime scene depicting an interview between a lover and a bewitching young lady. At first she scorns his addresses and finally relents and falls into his (her) arms.

President Duncan at this juncture thanked the large assemblage for coming and said it was an experiment in giving this style of entertainment and he was gratified at the cordial reception given it and that he hoped Terre Haute would take Coates College into her arms as completely as had been portrayed in this last scene and that we would hear no more of the rumors afloat of late about the removal of the college. Loud applause at the close of Mr. Duncan's remarks showed how the people present felt on this subject.

A table ladened with candy in dainty boxes, both the handiwork of the resident students, met with ready sale after the program was over.

The exercises were accompanied by very skillfully performed music on the piano. The events were:

Wands.
Dumb bells.
Indian clubs.
Archery.
Flying rings.
Rope.
Delsarte.

The performance was under the auspices of the Coates College Athletic club, of which Miss Esther Eddy is president, and which comprises three divisions, archery, tennis and bicycling.

ADDITIONAL PERSONALS.

[See additional personals and business personals on third page.]

A. R. Gard will spend Sunday at his home in Marshall.

Miss Emma Rigby, of Brazil, is visiting in the city.

Harry Gamble, of Martinsville, Ill., was in the city this week.

Ira Schmachtenberger visited relatives in Illinois last week.

Miss Helen Hall, who has been visiting at Brazil, has returned.

Dr. and Mrs. Culbertson, of Brazil, were in the city yesterday.

Will Rosenberger, of Woodland, Ill., left the city for his home Tuesday last.

Judge White returned to Rockville yesterday evening. He will be in Terre Haute again next Tuesday.

W. B. Scholfield, the popular young lawyer of Marshall, passed through the city this week en route home from Chicago.

S. H. Hybarger, Mont Davison, Ernie Lockart and Ed Gilmer, of Marshall, attended the Moose ball at Bindley hall Thursday night.

Delle Gillette, expert lineman of the Terre Haute Street Railway Co., has changed his residence from north Ninth to south Seventh street.

Miss Trum, of Cincinnati, is the guest of Mrs. Theodore Hulman Sr., and Mrs. Gordon Elliott, dividing her

We are showing the finest of Men's Spring Suits at $12, $15,

ever put on the back of m
$35 Made-to-order Suit in comparison with these European and American

DON'T MISS VIS

Boys and Children'

To attempt to descri
Children's Suits and do t be like an attempt to pain

Special values in Con day.

Myers

Leading One-Price Clothiers. C

BUCKEYE CA
The Leading Cash Sto
In Terre Haute

We Have Yet On Ha
---OF THE M'COY BROS
which will be sla —48c on the

Many of you can yet good honest goods at t
price of 48c on the Dol

On Monday an

Terre Haute Evening Gazette
Sat. March 10, 1894, pg. 8.
-68
1826 of Taney, mused them. [illegible] expression

[illegible] Advantage of a [illegible] and bought a square [illegible] the new billiard ta- [illegible] the looks of the [illegible]ably.

[illegible] Bowlers held their reg- [illegible]day night, with the [illegible]

[illegible]	225
[illegible]	224
[illegible]	206
[illegible]	207
[illegible]	205
[illegible]	209
[illegible]	233
[illegible]	193
[illegible]	197

[illegible] was carried off the bly [illegible]ering the booby whip [illegible] to Seeleyville his [illegible]bomb members ing stab rooms at 9:15 Hawk[illegible] are requested main[illegible] publications up time[illegible]ated on at the

Mr. [illegible] will bring the three [illegible] there is a move- [illegible] initiation fee [illegible] by [illegible] after the 50 Hol[illegible]

[illegible] last Sunday was [illegible] fine [illegible]eelmen. Several [illegible] climb the hill but by [illegible]ting up. The hill by [illegible]. Those present [illegible] Hering, Newbole, [illegible] Testimony, Miller, [illegible] H. D. Vrydaugh, I. [illegible] Teel, Shaw, [illegible], Wefler, Kling- [illegible]

[illegible] WORLD.

[illegible] awarded as a [illegible]

[illegible] costumes [illegible] designed.

[illegible] given Lisbon [illegible]

[illegible] a strap and [illegible] an excellent [illegible]

[illegible] for 1904.

[illegible] Shoelman in [illegible] the negro [illegible], its color [illegible]

[illegible] runner goes [illegible] with a small [illegible] his machine. [illegible] "Daisy" [illegible]

[illegible] wheel has [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] said "We [illegible] said that nei- [illegible] will be seen in [illegible]

[illegible] roll of the [illegible] the coming [illegible]

[illegible] Criminal Cib- [illegible] a decision [illegible] removal of [illegible] the orders of [illegible]

[illegible] of Pythias [illegible] considering the [illegible] made [illegible] them [illegible] Fowler [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

several years ago by Charley Tyler. Frank Cunningham was the postmaster.

"I remember a [illegible] a few Indians hereabouts when I was a boy," said Mr. Brake to a GAZETTE writer yesterday. "One Indian in particular was a great, strapping fellow." As a boy Mr. Brake went to the country school north of town. Ezra Jones was the school teacher at Markle's mill. He was a half brother of J. O. Jones. William Woolen was the teacher at a school on the east end of what is now the poor farm. Billy Mars was the first Town Marshal Mr. Brake has recollection of.

As a boy Mr. Brake well remembers the old two story brick court house in the center of the court house square, where the present court house stands. "The Chadwick house on the south side of Ohio street, between Third and Fourth," said Mr. Brake, "was formerly part of a dwelling that stood back in the yard at Third and Main where C. C. Smith's stove store is. It was moved where it now is from that location. Another part of the house was moved up in the vicinity of the Filbeck House somewhere."

Continued Mr. Brake: "The most exciting political campaign I ever knew in this county was in 1840 between the Whigs and Democrats when Harrison and Van Buren ran for President. There was not so much bitterness as in 1864, but the campaign was the hottest I ever knew. In the early days there was a good deal of steamboating done on the Wabash from Terre Haute. There were no railroads then and that was practically the only means of finding an outlet for produce. There were lots of steamboats and flatboats that went out of here. I made two trips from here to New Orleans on a flat boat as a bow hand, getting $35 each time for the trip. Once I went down for Sam Paddock and next for Levi G. Warren. The latter was then in the general merchandizing and pork packing business and was one of the best men that ever lived anywhere."

The only office Mr. Brake everheld was one of the three trustees the township had in the early days. He was once elected a supervisor, but he said: "I moved out of the district a few weeks later to keep from serving."

Mr. Brake saw Dyas hung on Strawberry Hill. "There was an immense crowd there," said Mr. Brake, "the whole hill being lined with people. I had an invitation to see Morgan hung, but I didn't go. One hanging was enough for me." Mr. Brake said the wildest time he had ever seen in Terre Haute during all his life was during the railroad strike in 1877. He said the scene at the Union depot the day the train came in from Indianapolis beat anything he ever saw. It was a terrible sight. Where all the people came from in so short a time was a wonder to him. It looked as if they had actually come out of the ground. He would never forget the late Charles R. Peddle on that day. He was the master mechanic of the road and during all the excitement he was cool and self-possessed.

Mr. Brake said: "I have seen this whole country hereabouts developed for coal. There was but a very little coal known in this county when I was growing up and the whole field has been developed since I came here until now coal is known nearly in all parts of the county."

Mr. Brake has a wife and [illegible] children. He was married forty years last [illegible]

Delsarte.

The performance was under the auspices of the Coates College Athletic club, of which Miss Esther Eddy is president, and which comprises three divisions, archery, tennis and bicycling.

ADDITIONAL PERSONALS.

[See additional personals and business personals on third page.]

A. R. Gard will spend Sunday at his home in Marshall.

Miss Emma Rigby, of Brazil, is visiting in the city.

Harry Gamble, of Martinsville, Ill., was in the city this week.

Ira Schmachtenberger visited relatives in Illinois last week.

Miss Helen Hall, who has been visiting at Brazil, has returned.

Dr. and Mrs. Culbertson, of Brazil, were in the city yesterday.

Will Rosenberger, of Woodland, Ill., left the city for his home Tuesday last.

Judge White returned to Rockville yesterday evening. He will be in Terre Haute again next Tuesday.

W. B. Scholfield, the popular young lawyer of Marshall, passed through the city this week en route home from Chicago.

S. H. Hyburger, Mont Davison, Ernie Lockart and Ed Gilmer, of Marshall, attended the Moose ball at Bindley hall Thursday night.

Delle Gillette, expert lineman of the Terre Haute Street Railway Co., has changed his residence from north Ninth to south Seventh street.

Miss Trum, of Cincinnati, is the guest of Mrs. Theodore Hulman Sr., and Mrs. Gordon Elliott, dividing her time between the two houses. She will remain until the last of next week.

For Coughs use the Lung Renovator

Ask your druggist for Lung Renovator.

Mme. Swick, modiste at Hamill's, will make you a perfect fitting gown for six dollars.

Attend the opening display of dress goods at Hamill's Friday and Saturday.

Goodman and Hirschler have received their entire stock of spring clothing and ask the public to give them a call when looking around for a new spring suit. They have as large and complete a line as can be found anywhere and their prices are always the very lowest.

Try the NATIONAL HOTEL. It is the best $2 house in Indiana, by general consent. Location central.

Ninth Street Improvement.

Below is published the bids on the north Ninth street improvement, the figures for both the Clinton repressed and the Wabash clay or Veedersburg brick being given:

PROPERTY OWNERS PORTION PER SQUARE YARD.

	Clinton Repressed.	Repressed Wabash Clay
T. W. Kinser & Son	$1.78	$2.08
Cox & Wheeler	1.94	2.00
J. E. Voorhees & Co	1.84	1.88
Indiana Contract Co	1.88	1.92
C. W. Abbott	1.99	2.05
Lennox Bros	1.79

BUCKEYE C[illegible]
The Leading Cash [illegible]
In Terre Haute
We Have Yet On [illegible]
---OF T[illegible]
M'COY BRO[illegible]
which will be [illegible]
—48c on th[illegible]
Many of you can [illegible]
good honest goods at [illegible]
price of 48c on the [illegible]
On Monday [illegible]
We will open and plac[illegible]
New Spring [illegible]
At Very L[illegible]
You will find here an elegant [illegible]
All Wool N[illegible]
We have to show you an elabo[illegible]
Light Ground H[illegible]
DOTTE[illegible]
from the small dainty dot to th[illegible] the 10c quality up. The prop[illegible]
EASTER AND CON[illegible]
Our New Spring [illegible] will also be on sale Monday an[illegible] line is not to be found in this cit[illegible] consistent with quality cannot [illegible]
Carpets and [illegible]
No other house can show you a [illegible] will offer you better terms, [illegible]
free of charge bought in this [illegible]
JESSE LE[illegible]